

As part of the AA Camp in Madrid and Madrid Abierto 2010

ADAPTIVE ACTIONS

Open Call for participation

AA thrives on individual and collective contributions and initiatives and proceeds by an open call for participation (in several places simultaneously). AA is looking for new contributions for the website, the next publication (Madrid edition) as well as to stimulate reflection, discussions and presentations at the AA Camp in Madrid, from February 4 to 28 (in a space soon to be revealed). Through the website or at the Camp, people may register as actors and submit actions, whether or not they already exist, and whether they were created by you or others. You may also comment or discuss forthcoming contribution. www.adaptiveactions.net / info@adaptiveactions.net

The Adaptive Action (AA) laboratory, initiated in London in 2007, lends voice to marginal causes, alternative urban lifestyles, counter-conduct and citizen artistic creation by which imagination and personal creativity influence daily life. AA makes an inventory and discloses these singularities and existing actions, and aims to encourage others to engage in new creative activities in order to adapt the urban fabric.

Détroit ville résiliente (AA83), actor : FNJFP, autor: residente de Detroit, 2005

M[^]
A DRID
BIERTO

Canada Council for the Arts

Conseil des Arts
du Canada

Québec